Cooperation to a higher level

➤ The essence of our work process is in the joining of forces. As the producer of heavy duty HMPE softslings, we combine our specialist product knowledge with experience in the field. We work shoulder to shoulder with dealers, resellers and end-users in a well-balanced chain of production. This is where the strongest partnerships are born.

It all starts with partnership

Experience the power of unity in our well-balanced chain of production. Through this we stick to our centerline of technical expertise. This allows us to support you from engineering and calculation to load testing and service support.

The highest quality

Heavy lift operations demand the highest level of accuracy. Now, and even more in the future. Due to our advanced production process, our HMPE slings are up to the latest standards in order to meet the ever-increasing demands of quality and safety.

Try by test

A smooth lifting process demands knowledge from experience. During both the preparatory stages and the after sales, challenges (sometimes uninvited) can present themselves. We know how to handle these challenges. Our team is always ready to help you with effective responses and decisive solutions.

Your solution for today
to challenge the future

Light weight heavy duty

The power of Enduro Softslings exceeds the ever-increasing lifting capacity. Our strength lies in the extremely accurate length tolerance and the simplicity of the handling, due to the remarkably light weight. Riggers and roustabouts who have worked with our softslings swear by it.

The power of a soft touch

Delicate hoisting objects and critical parts demand a careful approach. Our softslings allow you to prevent any damage during the lifting process. The object's varnish or technical appliances are safe in the case of any chafing or hits. Use our lifting expertise in your advantage to tackle the challenges of the future.

Precision to the last detail

Length tolerance, bending radius, safety requirements. It's these details that are crucial to the safe and efficient execution of a heavy lifting project. We achieve precision to the last detail due to our well-balanced production process, strict quality control and the knowledge and expertise of our employees.

Years of experience: the foundation of knowledge and quality.

Since 1887, Koster Industrial Textiles has been active in the production of lifting and lashing equipment. A Dutch company in every five, quality and craftsmanship have been of paramount importance for more than a century. Enduro Softslings, as a subsidiary company, works with the same DNA, from the same mentality and motivation. Professional, reliable, and involved to the very last detail.
